PRIVATE & CONFIDENTIAL

Memorandum of Understanding between

HEVOLUTION

And

Waraqa Publishing House LTD.

I. Proposal Definition and Essentials

It is the intent of this memorandum to formally detail the services to be provided, the rights, obligations, and the terms that are proposed and agreed upon if by mutual consent between "Waraqa Publishing House Ltd." (henceforth the "Publisher"); and the "HEVOLUTION" (henceforth the "Client") in the pursuit of furthering the societies short and mid-term goals in research, education and practice standardization, and social awareness in the chosen field.

It is implicit and non-negotiable that the financing of these services by the Client are its responsibility to orchestrate and manage internally.

In recognition of this and in the interest of improving the lives of fellow Saudis, the Publisher will accept a promise to be the preferred partner for the Client in any projects or nationally sanctioned ventures to which it is partisan, the Publisher acting as the representative or hired third-party should it fall within the Publishers area of industry and practice. It is also acknowledged that the Publisher will be under no such constraint and may demand payment for services rendered, either in kind or pre-arranged fees.

Both Parties recognize as non-negotiable condition for the association that the Publisher will not work under an exclusivity clause, being free to pursue its other obligations so long as they do not effect the obligations set herein; neither will the Client make unreasonable claims or demands that exceed the terms outlined herein unless by mutual consent with the Publisher. In exchange, the Publisher will practice his due diligence in the most expedient and professional manner possible within reason.

All other rights, responsibilities, and benefits that either party may suggest going forward are as of now still negotiable until such time this document is signed and executed.

II. Scope of the Project

The nature of the association which we have in mind is of variable details naturally, but in broad strokes, Waraqa would become the de facto publications arm for all Hevolution in exchange for being responsible for providing qualified and experienced editors, reviewers and publication experts for all Hevolutions needs. Although some aspects may be run in parallel, the precise nature of what is required, what the end goal is, and each step in that process will be in full sight and ensuring its quality and success prior to initiating the next phases.

2.1 Creation and Launch of Journal

As an initial show of good faith and commitment, we are prepared to found and publish a research journal for Hevolution dedicated to Bioethics, Global Justice, and Longevity, from the concept to first issue publication.
Details on the precise advantages and duties that such an agreement will entail is of course a matter for future discussion but will by necessity include the following:

-Technical Information
The Client agrees to be responsible for providing the material (articles, abstracts, reviews, etc.) that will be included in the Journal, as well as maintaining the responsibility to oversee and enforce the standards, guidelines and practices defined by the Publisher at its inception.

Should the Client wish to enlist aid in the review and editing of submitted works, they must approach the Publisher as an independent entity and subject to whatever fees such work entails at the Publishers discretion.

The Publisher may be approached for offering an opinion on the disposition and language used in assembling the information but the Client understands that this will merely be an opinion and gesture of goodwill and thus not subject to redress in any future disputes.

-Editing and Translation

The Publisher will provide its team of editors and, if required, a translator to summarize and present the information in Arabic in an easy to read digest or other form or distributable written material which will be presented and explained at all main institutions, events or clinics where the Client is known to work or will be present.

-Journal Publication
The Publisher agrees to aid the Client in elaborating and reviewing the proposed journal dedicated to Bioethics, Global Justice, and Longevity, offering assistance in selecting a competent editorial board, defining the scope and procedure for author submissions, and accompany the launch of the first two (2) issues through the correct channels, both physically and online.

In summary, the Publisher offers the Client the following editorial services for its Journal:

- Logical, concise argument assessment.
- Addressing ethical or legal difficulties
- Assessment of suitability of proposed subject for the current time and journal theme.

- Editing and Proofreading services to maintain the high level of language expected from publications.
- Maintain authors informed of developments with easy-to-understand charts and professional illustrations and unembellished wording.
- Ensure strong adequate titles, appropriate keywords, and relevant headings and captions are included and assigned to graphic media.

I. General policy for services

In general, all our services will abide by the following principles:

1. The Publisher shall endeavour whenever possible to comport itself in a reasonable fashion, demonstrating skill, care, professionalism, and due diligence in accordance with generally recognized commercial practices and industry standards.
2. The Publisher's Managing Director is responsible for upholding the essential terms for affiliation as set forth in this document.
3. In situations of non-conformity, accountability falls to the Client unless the problem is one of service breakdown, platform malfunction, or Force Major.
4. The Publisher will endeavour to always follow national standards for best practice, expecting and requesting the same from all its associates, both current and future; exceptions being pursuant to the above clause.
5. The Publisher may outsource any part of the services to a third-party provided they read and agree to follow these same policies.
6. The Publisher supports an open-door policy for any individual wishing to consult with us both privately and as a representative for a collective, so long as the query is not a service we offer.
7. The Publisher grants access to in-house and independent teams of editors and reviewers as an outsource-able commodity, provided the legalities regarding compromising bias are observed in cases wherein a conflict of interests is present.
8. The Publisher focuses on national education and advancement of new researchers and increasing engagement and dissemination of higher educational materials throughout the Kingdom, thus contributing to the "Vision 2030" program.

III. Publishing Services

The Publisher have a proven and well-respected record in journal publication, upkeep, and online footprint management that make it ideal for providing customers with all their needs. It is their mission to become a household name in the Middle East for all services in medical journal creation. To this end, we employ or have ties with companies and individuals specialized in media and branding, website creation, and content review accredited boards to guarantee the best possible outcome for any project. Our strength lies in our specialization in the correct handling of medical literary works, from their infancy to their publication in custom created online journals.

Among our various successes may be found the recognized "International Journal of Medicine in Developing Countries" (IJMDC), which is well into its 4th volume since its creations in 2017; and the more recently established "Saudi Journal for Emergency Medicine", (SJIM) which is already starting to see more widespread popularity and some international acclaim.

3.1 General policy for Publishing Services

- As part of our areas of industry, we provide the option for the Client to request the creation of a dedicated journal of their choosing, released either biannually or annually.
- The Publisher implements industry standard access controls and detection capabilities for its internal networks; these are provided by cloud services which monitor access, security groups and traditional firewall rules.
- Daily backups ensure the ability to restore the availability and access to personal data in a timely manner in the event of a physical or technical incident.
- The Publisher will ensure a Digital Object Identifier (DOI) is attributed to each article published on its online platform.
- The Publisher maintains the right to veto decisions that impact technical and administrative requirements for online publication and maintenance.
- In the event of an irreconcilable disagreement between Parties, both agree to the following measures being enacted temporarily:
    - The Client shall defer to The Publisher's policies unless both the editor and the Client delegate can prove they are legally suspect or detrimental to the company
    - The Publisher will determine all aspects of marketing, public image, and sales strategies for any published articles, as well as have the right to issue a withdrawal notice for publications facing public contention.
- The Publisher shall endeavour to maintain the journal available and listed on the online archive in perpetuity.
- The Journal cover page must discreetly identify and accurately represent The Publisher as the entity responsible for the journal's publication and upkeep.
- The Publisher will be solely responsible for all aspects of the online platform, including design, functionality, hosting, and other technical aspects.

3.2 Peer Review Process

All articles published through The Publisher undergo peer review administered by a board of selected reviewers and select volunteers. Each reviewer is asked to commit to our policy of peer review. The key features of the process are listed below:

1. All submitted manuscripts are to be treated as confidential documents
2. Reviewers will disclose any competing interests before agreeing to review a submission and remove themselves from cases where such conflict does not allow an objective evaluation

3. Reviewers will evaluate each manuscript for its intellectual content without regard to race, gender, age, sexual orientation, religious belief, ethnic origin, political philosophy, citizenship, domicile or institutional affiliation of the authors
4. Reviewers will conduct the review objectively and avoid any personal criticism of the author
5. Reviewers assess the article for clarity, validity, and sound methodology, providing formative feedback, even if an article is not deemed suitable for publication.
6. Reviewers shall take reasonable steps to identify and prevent the publication of papers where research misconduct is identified, including plagiarism, citation manipulation, and data falsification/fabrication.

IV. Research Grant Management Services

As recently as a few years ago, research grants management systems (RGMS) were designed purely as productivity tools—automating manual tasks to make life easier for the grants manager. Fast forward a few years, and the role of the RGMS and the expectations around it have expanded to encompass ease of use, impact analysis, and built-in collaboration capabilities that connect an organization with others in the research ecosystem. In a nutshell, grants management systems have evolved from pure productivity tools to fully fledged platforms. A modern RGMS not only drives efficiency and accuracy, but also serves as a platform for innovation and decision making.

4.1 RGMS Services

Service	Description
Administrative Workload Management	• The Publisher has the ability to aid in the following managerial processes and functions during research: • Financial management • Grant proposal process • Progress/outcome reporting • Human subjects research reporting • Time and effort reporting • Documentation related to research involving animals
Ease of Information Access	• With The Publisher's grant management system, users can quickly access information at any time through easy to use web-based interfaces that include dashboards, display screens and reports.
Automated Permissions & Communication	• The Publisher delivers multi-tiered security system controls for ease of availability and access. • We can streamline the access to Client proposals and awards according to user defined filters. • Alerts, email reminders, notification of pending activities or reporting deadlines are provided to key members.
Automated Time and Effort Tracking	• Automating certification and reporting reduces the time it takes to meet all national time and effort certification and reporting mandates.
Document Management and Storage	• The Publisher offers a system to automate the storage of documents digitally. These include the: • Original proposal • Notice of award • Funding authority notifications • Budget forms • Routing sheets • Agency progress • Financial reports

V. GENERAL POLICY

5.1 Ownership Rights

The Publisher contributions in the performance of his/her services hereunder are as a "work made for hire" (as defined under the United States Copyright Laws) specially commissioned by the Client. The rights attributable in and to the Publisher including, without limitation, all results and consequences thereof are of the responsibility of the requesting party; all proceeds that may arise from this work are owed solely to the Publisher and requesting entity and may not be attributed to the Client in its private capacity.

If it is determined that Publisher's contributions do not constitute a "work made for hire", as such term is understood under copyright laws, the Publisher hereby assigns and transfers to the requesting party, exclusively and perpetually, all rights of every kind and character in and to all results and consequences of Publisher's services produced during the term of this Agreement.

5.2 Potential Conflicts of Interest

The Client hereby warrants that there is no current or potential conflict of interest between itself and the Publisher at the time of this agreement.

All information related to operation from either the Client, the Publisher or other employees, and private authors, up to and until such time as materials are published, are confidential and may not be disclosed to any third party.

During the term of this Agreement, the Publisher shall not engage in actions which may constitute an actual, apparent or potential conflict of interest with the mission and activities of the Client; will follow policies and procedures as applicable to his/her duties; and will disclose to the Client any such conflicts of interest and any business, financial, and organizational interests and affiliations which are or could be construed to be a conflict of interest prior to these being a source of concern.

5.3 Limitation of Liability

Except in cases of personal injury or professional liability, the liability of either party under this agreement shall not exceed an amount equal to the value of any and all fines or fees for legal representation. Neither party shall be liable to the other for any lost revenue or indirect or punitive, exemplary, special, or consequential damages even if the party has been advised as to the possibility of such damages, and regardless of whether the claim for such damages is asserted under a theory of breach of contract, tort or any other theory of liability, and any claim to such damages is expressly waived. The provisions of this article shall survive termination or expiration of this Agreement.

The Client shall indemnify and hold harmless the Publisher from any loss, damage, or third-party claim or cause of action due to a breach of this Agreement or of these representations and warranties.

5.4 Confidential Matters and Proprietary Information

Both Parties shall keep in strictest confidence all information produced during the performance of this Agreement or which may be acquired in connection with or as a result of this Agreement. Confidential Matters and Proprietary Information shall include any material that describes the ideas, function, operation, outcomes, of any services owned and/or currently being developed as a result of this Agreement.

The Client shall treat the terms of this Agreement, and all Journal information and financial reports as confidential. No disclosure of such confidential information shall be made to any third party except upon prior consent of the Publisher.

5.5 Name and Likeness

The Client grants the Publisher the perpetual non-exclusive right to use and license others to use its name, likeness and bibliographic material in connection with advertising or publicizing Journal articles; and any other materials written by the Publisher-in-Chief in any medium, provided that these do not constitute a form of product or service endorsement, without the specific written consent in each instance.

5.6 Representations and Warranties

The Client represents and warrants as follows: The Publisher has full power and authority to enter into this Agreement and to perform the duties and obligations set forth in this Agreement. Only the Client as the organization or entity for which the Publisher agrees to render service shall have any rights in or control over the Publisher's work and services on behalf of the Client, in so far as these do not violate any agreement between the Publisher and the Client.

Subject to the Journal's guidelines for submissions, the Client attests that it will not contain any contributions that the Publisher reasonably believes or has reason to know, or suspect may infringe upon or violate any copyright, trademark, trade secret, or obligation of confidentiality or other right, or the privacy of others, or contain any libellous materials, or contain such material or matter or instructions that may cause harm or injury to the Client or the Publisher.

5.7 Termination of Agreement

Waraqa Publishing House Ltd. holds the right to, and the Client agrees that Waraqa Publishing House Ltd. may terminate the Agreement in the event that the Client fails to fulfill any material obligation contained in this Agreement. Before termination, the parties will use reasonable efforts to resolve any dispute arising out of this Agreement hereto through a meeting of appropriate persons from each party within five days of the dispute arising.

Waraqa Publishing House Ltd. can also terminate the Agreement where:

- The Client makes the timely publication of the Journal difficult.
- The Client fails to proceed regularly and diligently with the execution of the Agreement and fails to meet the agreed timelines.
- The Client may terminate the Agreement by giving Waraqa Publishing House Ltd.[30] days' notice of its intention to do so.

5.8 Excusable Delays & Notice of Delay or Impediment

Either party shall be liable for default unless nonperformance is caused by an occurrence beyond the reasonable control of the party and without its fault or negligence, such as acts of God or the public enemy, acts of the Government in its sovereign or contractual capacity, fires, floods, epidemics, quarantine restrictions, strikes, unusually severe weather, and delays of common carriers. The delayed party shall notify the other in writing as soon as it is reasonably possible in after the commencement of an excusable delay, setting forth the full particulars in connection therewith, shall remedy such occurrence with all reasonable dispatch, and shall promptly give written notice to the other.

5.9 Entirety of Agreement, Governing Law and Order of Precedence

This Agreement, contains the entire agreement of the parties and no amendment, alteration, or other change to any provision which is inconsistent with or in addition to the terms and conditions herein shall be effective unless implemented by a mutually agreed upon, written modification to this Agreement accepted by the Publisher. Failure of either party to enforce any of its rights hereunder shall not constitute a waiver of such rights or of any other rights hereunder.

This agreement shall be interpreted in accordance with the laws of Saudi Arabia and each of the Parties hereto irrevocably agrees that the Courts of Saudi Arabia are to have jurisdiction to settle any disputes which may arise out of or in connection with this agreement. In the event of any inconsistencies, ambiguities, or conflicts of interpretation between this agreement document, the order of precedence for governance of intent and meaning shall be (1) this agreement; and (2) Other written documentation.

VI. Non-Binding Commitment

As a Memorandum of Understanding and not a MoA, this document is legally non-binding, being merely an indication of interest. However, the information contained herein is protected under an NDA and is therefore confidential and may not be disclosed other than to authorized administrative staff, and its advisors on a strictly need-to-know basis. It is not intended, and shall not be deemed, to create any binding obligation on the part of Waraqa Publishing House Ltd. or any of its affiliates, to engage in any transaction with the Hevolution or to continue its consideration of any such transaction. Subject to the immediately following sentence, none of the parties shall be bound in any way in connection with this document unless and until the parties execute a definitive agreement (MoA), after which both shall be bound only in accordance with the terms of the agreement. Notwithstanding any evidence to the contrary in this memorandum, the Exclusivity and Confidentiality Agreement, once executed by the parties thereto, shall constitute binding obligations of the parties thereto.
